January 2021

President's Message

The "Same Old Same Old" is not going to happen! We have been experiencing wild rides these past nine months, and don't wish to repeat them! But, there have been many beneficial "first-time experiences" in our lives. We have met the challenge of learning new technology to keep in communication with each other, and work from home. We have figured out how to do many things without touching, while doing the face-mask thing. Oh my!

Pandemics that occurred in the past greatly affected societies, here and abroad. The Renaissance of Art and Science was sparked by the Bubonic Plague in Europe centuries ago. And now, during our COVID-19 Pandemic, we creative artists will find NEW ways to express ourselves to learn and grow. I am grateful to have the opportunity to help you do this through the Annapolis Watercolor Club.

Each monthly meeting we bring you artists that demonstrate their talent on Zoom. We have had workshops, Plein Air events, and art exhibits. Our AWC members and patrons from many states continue to increase each month. Please invite friends to join us! Everyone will enjoy so many amazing events that are scheduled for 2021!

Monthly Meeting

Wednesday, January 13, 2021 6:30-8:30pm

Connie presents Members Artwork Salon at 6:30 pm
President Linda Luke gives updates at 7:00 pm

Live Demonstration begins at 7:15 pm with our guest artist
Carolyn Marshall Wright

Carolyn remains fascinated by the medium of watercolor and how it conveys such luminosity and light. As a growing artist, she became intrigued by abstract images, and began working with acrylics and collage as she further explored color and structure. Still, for a number of years, her abstract acrylic work remained separate and distinct from her representational watercolor. However, several years ago, she began to meld the abstract with the representational, utilizing the full panoply of techniques learned from painting with each medium. Now she creates paintings that are luminous with vibrant color, confident in composition and expressive

Thank You Mick McAndrews!

We saw the true MAGIC of WATERCOLOR while watching you paint! You not only educated but entertained us at our December Member Meeting. We were held captive, while you gave us hints on how we could bring mystery and magic, into our own work through various methods. You paint loose washes, not taking things too seriously; keeping the application loose without concern for details.

Your running narrative was full of fun expressions: "Keep the landscape loose - it can blend into the sky - don't take it seriously." "When painting the building, leave some white area - don't paint details - let the viewer decide what is there." As Mick painted the pier pilings, he went "boom" as he brought down the brush (rough rendering, brush not full of paint). He stated it "helps if you say 'boom'....Mick used the trick of creating the mast and ropes on the ship by pulling up paint from the painted ship with the use of a credit card edge. As he brought our eyes around the composition, he stated it was important to have the different parts "connect". Mick didn't paint too many details during the demo. He stated he may "add more jewelry" at another time (details). Funny!

Mick helped us learn that it is all about "story telling" - and the

Sunshine Club

Happy New Year to Annapolis Watercolor Club members, your friends and your families. What a year 2020 has been!

As a Club, we have tried to keep in touch with everyone and the Sunshine Club is part of attempting to bring some cheer and sunshine into darker days. With many people alone during the cold winter months ahead, please don't hesitate to let me know their details and a cheering Jacquie Lawson card will be sent to them. Whether

January Zoom Art Salon

Remember Maryland Hall for the Creative Arts?

We used to have our AWC meetings at Maryland Hall, and prior to the meeting our members would bring their recent paintings, or work in process. Then we asked our visitors to leave encouraging comments on ledge paper, and critique the art work.

Since March this year, we have not been able to meet and critique in person. However, you can email me a .jpg of your current work and I will show it on our Zoom January 13th Art Salon! Please send the photo by Monday, January 11th, with the TITLE, SIZE and a little back story of why and how you created your paintings. Please forward to: Constancejr@comcast.net.

Exhibits

GINGER COVE EXHIBIT

Our Ginger Cove exhibit was successfully (and safely) delivered on November 11, despite the heavy rain that morning, and has been artfully installed by the Ginger Cove Exhibit Committee. It will remain through January 8, 2021. I understand there have been a couple of sales. I will pick up all the work and will notify the exhibitors when to pick up their paintings from me. Again, the Covid protocols are in place so no one will be permitted into the building to pick up their own work.

Workshops

"It is Safe to Come Out Yet?"

Webmaster

If there is any truth to the myth of the 'tortured artist', this has been the year to test it! Perhaps some great art has come out of this year of misfortune. There has been a silver lining for AWC to be sure. We have continued our monthly meetings with higher attendance than ever; we have had some great exhibits, even if they had to be partially virtual; and we are offering a record number of workshops, all well attended. All of this would not have happened without such a strong team on the board, and it has been energizing and encouraging to changes we have enjoyed while in isolation will continue in 2021 but without the isolation!

We introduced on-line payments for membership and events about a year ago, and it has been working well. Look for more improvements in the website and other communications as we move forward. Feel free to contact me with suggestions (or corrections) at any time. Have a safe and healthy holiday season, and let's look forward to a better year in 2021!

Publicity

It has been a pleasure working with President Linda Luke, each of our chair persons and many of you within our club. It's been virtual but also very real!

I joined our club in March, just as things were beginning to shut down due to Covid-19. Linda said it was going to be a wild ride but I had no idea what she meant. She was not kidding and I'm still spinning from all that I've been learning and doing.

I have learned that Linda is not only charismatic and charming; she's innovative, forward thinking and will do whatever is required to get a job done. I am amazed at the opportunities that she has

Since the COVID is getting in the way of attending any AWC meetings or holiday parties, this year we will not be collecting gifts to donate to the shelter. After discussing some ideas with the Administrator at the Shelter, we consider these the best options for you to consider for making a donation:

- 1.) Make a monetary donation directly on their website, and you have an option to list AWC as the organization you represent. Or, you can just make it a personal donation.
- 2.) Pick some items that are immediately needed on their Wish List to purchase. These items can be purchased online using Instacart/Prime Pantry and via our Amazon Wish List for delivery directly to the Center (with masks, of course). <https://annapolislighthouse.org/get-involved/needs/>
- 3.) It is entirely up to you how you want to support this worthy organization to end homelessness.

Meet "Teddy"

You may have seen him in the December Members Meeting world. Her countless hours spent learning how to use special camera equipment to provide our members with AWC meetings and workshops, demonstrates her incredible stamina and dedication to each of us. I can't think of any place I'd rather be at this time.

Linda keeps repeating that people are looking for a "soft place to land". What's not to love about feeling included, while also learning and painting! We don't get to go back and relive experiences, so let's create some new ones together! Pick up those paint brushes and Let's Get Painting! We might not be able to change the world, but we can certainly make it a prettier place!

During this time of year, I Wish You Love, Peace and Joy!
